Section A

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT SYSTEM AND DATA REQUIREMENTS CONTROL LIST (AMSDL)

1. ABOUT THE AMSDL.

a. The AMSDL lists the data requirements (source documents and DIDs) that have been approved for use in Defense contracts. These documents should not be used in DoD contracts unless Government Program/Project Managers, Acquisition Managers or Contracting Officers believe such data is essential to accomplishing the mission of the Department of Defense. The restrictions of public laws regarding information collection by the Federal Government applies to data acquired under DoD contracts. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Control Number 0704-0188 has been assigned to all data requirements and source documents listed herein.

b. The AMSDL only lists data requirements cleared under the control number 0704-0188. It does not include other data requirements that may be required under other Public Laws, Federal Statutes, Executive Orders, etc., specified in Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) or Defense FAR Supplement (DFARS) clauses or covered by other OMB control numbers.

2. MANAGEMENT OF THE AMSDL.

The AMSDL is managed by the Office of the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Logistics under the DoD Technical Data Management Program. Mrs. Linda Fowble is the DoD AMSDL Clearance Officer and the focal point in the Office of the Secretary Defense for the Technical Data Management Program. You can contact her as follows:

Mrs. Linda Fowble
ODUSD(L) CALS
5203 Leesburgh Pike, Suite 1609
Falls Church, VA 22041-3466

FAX: (703) 681-5682 edress: burghels@acq.osd.mil

3. AMSDL/DODISS INTEGRATION.

The ASSIST data base maintained by the Defense Automated Printing Service in Philadelphia, PA is used to store information for both the AMSDL and the DoD Index of Standards and Specifications (DoDISS). Although Part I of the AMSDL lists current source documents, canceled source documents are listed in the DoDISS.

4. CLEARANCE PROCESS.

All new and revised DIDs and source documents must be reviewed and cleared by the DoD AMSDL Clearance Officer before being used in a contract. The term source document means any specification or standard that contains requirements causing the generation of data or resulting in the collection of data from the private sector. DIDs that will only be used one time may be approved as a One Time DID by the DoD Component data manager in accordance with DoD's Technical Data Management Program policies and procedures. One Time DIDs are not listed in the AMSDL.

5. CORRECTIONS TO THE AMSDL.

Errors in the AMSDL such as typographical errors, inaccurate listings, conflicts between entries, etc. should be brought to the attention of the DoD AMSDL Clearance Officer listed above. Each Office of Primary Responsibility (OPR) should review new issuances of the AMSDL to ensure their documents are listed correctly. Errors, omissions or inaccuracies in the DIDs or source documents should be brought to the attention of the OPR for the document.

6. AMSDL STRUCTURE.

The AMSDL is composed of Sections A - F and four Parts:

Sections A - F: (This portion contains information about the AMSDL and DoD's management of data requirements.)

PART I Source Documents By Data Functional Area Assignment

PART II Numerical Listing of Data Item Descriptions

PART III Keyword Listing of Data Item Descriptions

PART IV Canceled/Superseded Data Item Descriptions

An exclamation point (!) in the left margin adjacent to an entry indicates that a change has been made for that item since the last edition of the AMSDL.

Section B

FORMAT OF THE AMSDL

PART I

SOURCE DOCUMENTS AND RELATED DIDs, BY DATA FUNCTIONAL AREA ASSIGNMENT

1. This part of the AMSDL list source documents and DIDs which have been cleared by OMB for contractual application. This listing is preceded by a "quick reference" source document index. The listing of source documents/DIDs is presented in the AMSDL data functional areas format. This format is broken out into 38 functional areas, (e.g., Reliability, Quality Control, Configuration Management) that equates to the 34 standardization areas in the SD-1, Standardization Directory. The AMSDL data functional areas include a more specific refinement of the "Miscellaneous Area" of the SD-1 which has been broken out in the data base to identify elements such as Financial, Administration, etc. The four (4) digit alpha symbols are the same as in the SD-1 wherever appropriate.
2. Each DID and its corresponding source document (as applicable) are assigned to the functional area that most nearly describes the use of the required data.
